

Fiber optic cable supply costs account for a high proportion of expenses

Overview

Costs: Fiber deployment includes high upfront expenses (CAPEX) like cables, equipment, and installation, alongside ongoing operational costs (OPEX) such as maintenance and power. These costs can be substantial and multifaceted, including materials like fibre cables, conduits, and other essential components. Commercial building installations with 100-200 network drops generally range from $15,000 to $30,000. Single-mode fiber costs less per foot than multimode fiber, but it requires more. Fiber optic cables are high-tech communications cables that carry information like bursts of light along extremely thin glass or plastic strands, providing high-speed, high-bandwidth connectivity with little loss of signal. This article breaks down the unit economics of fiber optic networks, focusing on costs, revenue models, and ROI benchmarks.
