

Foreign Trade Optical Cable Supplier

AI Overview

Reliable international optical cable suppliers can be sourced through platforms like Trademo, The Trade Vision, Eximpedia, Europages, and Volza, which provide verified contacts, trade data, and market insights.

Key Platforms to Find Suppliers

Trademo offers a global directory of optical cable buyers and suppliers, providing shipment activities, trade volumes, and trading partner information. It allows businesses to access detailed import-export data and connect with international suppliers for strategic sourcing.

The Trade Vision (TTV) lists verified fiber optic cable suppliers and exporters from over 180 countries. It provides contact details, shipment values, export prices, and trading networks. Top exporting countries include China, Germany, and Ukraine, making it easier to identify active and profitable suppliers.

Eximpedia provides a data-centric platform to analyze fiber optical cable trade, covering over 1,200 suppliers and 330 buyers. It offers intelligence reports on trade statistics, shipment values, quantities, HS codes, and key ports, helping businesses identify reliable exporters and emerging markets.

Europages is a B2B marketplace featuring verified optical fiber cable suppliers, including manufacturers like Lightmax SL, IDIL Fibres Optiques, and GP-Fiber Optics GmbH. It provides direct contact options and detailed company profiles for sourcing high-quality optical cables.

Volza aggregates over 569,000 export-import records, connecting buyers with 40,000+ suppliers across 203 countries. It allows filtering by price, volume, origin country, and supplier history, offering a comprehensive view of global trade opportunities.

Tips for Selecting Suppliers

Verify credentials: Ensure suppliers are certified and have a proven export history.

Check shipment data: Analyze trade volumes, frequency, and destinations to assess reliability.

Compare pricing and quality: Use trade platforms to benchmark prices and product specifications.

Consider top exporting countries: China, Germany, and Ukraine are major suppliers of fiber optic cables.
